Bethel Station Reduced SSDC fee accepted

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Bethel Board of Selectmen has agreed to a sewer system development charge of $41,680 for the first two buildings in Bethel Station.

In approving the fee, the board accepted developer Heinic Merrill's projections on the amount of the water that the two buildings (the train station and Casablanca Building) would use.

The fee based on Merrill's projections is less than half of what it would be had it been calculated on the basis of the Maine Plumbing Code.

The plumbing code figures are the usual basis for calculating the SSDC fee, but the town has previously allowed developers propose fees based on actual usage projections.

Town Manager Madeleine Henley cited the examples of the Davis Car Wash and the expansion of Cisco & Poncho's.

The SSDC fee is part of the 1991 consent order between the town and the state Department of Environmental Protection. The fees are intended to help underwrite the cost of improvements to the town's sewage treatment plant -- improvements necessitated in part by increased water flows that follow new development.

The current treatment plant, however, already has the capacity to handle the additional flow from the two new buildings.

The fee agreed to by the Juvenile biker leads police on chase through five towns

By WENDY HANSCOM

A juvenile motorcyclist led police on a high-speed chase last week from Bethel to North Paris.

Bethel Police Sgt. Darren Tripp attempted to stop the 17-year-old Norway male early Tuesday evening. The youth's 1985 Honda motorcycle had no rear light.

The driver refused to pull over, and Tripp pursued him. The juvenile and his male passenger fled south on Route 26. Tripp was assisted by police from four other agencies.

During the pursuit, the bike passed several vehicles on both sides and in the breakdown lane, according to police.

Game warden Norman Lewis blocked the southbound lane with his truck, but the juvenile rode around it.

The motorcyclist eventually went onto Route 219 in North Paris, stopped in a driveway and ran into the woods.

A state police dog was brought to the scene to search the woods. The driver was found, and he surrendered; but the juvenile passenger eluded police officers.

The driver had a blood alcohol level of .02, police said. He was charged with eluding an officer, driving to endanger, passing a road block, operating without a license, operating beyond motorcycle restrictions, illegal attachment of plates, operating an unregistered motor vehicle, failure to show proof of insurance and operating an uninspected vehicle.

Assisting Bethel Police were the Oxford County Sheriff's Office, Maine State Police, the Maine Warden Service and the Paris Police Department.

Winter's cold nips at apple crop

'We've been getting two or three bushels from one tree, but this year it took two or three trees to produce one bushel.'

NESTA LITTLEFIELD

By ALISON ALOISIO

During the past nine months Mother Nature has served us a tart brew of bitter cold, steady rain, and crisp early autumn chill -- with mixed results for local apple crops.

The cold was a killer. Last winter's 40 below zero temperatures and biting north wind killed a third of Phil Korhonen's trees at his West Bethel orchard, and it damaged the others enough to severely limit their productivity.

"I usually get 1500 to 2500 bushels a year. I'll be lucky if I get 100 this year," said Korhonen of the four-acre orchard, where the northern exposure left the trees vulnerable to wind.

Korhonen hopes to bring the surviving trees back to a productive level by pruning them back next year. "It's just one of those things," he said philosophically.

At Littlefield Orchard in Bethel, the yield has also plummeted.

"We've been getting two or three bushels from one tree," said NESTA Littlefield, "but this year it took two or three trees to produce one bushel."

"Every tree was damaged," said Dick Littlefield, "and some trees had no fruit at all." This was despite the fact that the trees were chickadee mads, developed by the University of Maine especially for this climate.

Dick Littlefield said the problem was compounded by the fact that there were very few bees this spring, which hurt pollination.

Frank Gibson's two-acre parcel of trees on the Northwest Bethel Road fared better, but the cold of winter still took its toll.

"My crop is down from last year. The 40 below temperature injured some of the trees," Gibson said. He said that his yellow delicious trees suffered most, due to greater cold sensitivity.

Despite the damage to the trees, Gibson said the apples that he did have were of good quality and had good color.

"The season is a week and a half ahead of usual, too," he said. Picking started two weeks ago at his

Pool hall proposed for West Bethel

And planners approve expansion of Mechanic St. auto parts store

By WENDY HANSCOM

The Bethel Planning Board agreed last week to hold a public hearing on a West Bethel pool hall, and the board approved an addition to Kelley's Auto Parts.

The board accepted the site plan application as complete for Rebel Recreation, a pool hall and arcade at the intersection of Route 2 and the Flat Road.

Sandra Pond and Nina Wheeler, both of West Bethel, plan to convert the first floor of the large white apartment building on that corner.

A few abutters of the property came to Wednesday's meeting to voice what they said were minor concerns over possible noise and traffic from the pool hall.

The board decided to hold a public hearing at 6:30 p.m. on Sept. 22 to get input on the project.

Parts store expanding

A 40-by-48-foot addition to Kelley's Auto Parts will give the store additional display space and handicapped access.

The board agreed to waive the 30-foot setback regulations from Mechanic and Summer streets.

Kelley's current Mechanic Street parking lot will be grassed over and parking will be moved to the North side of the lot (closest to Railroad Street).

Kennett may rebuild

In other business last week, the board asked Ed Kennett of Kennett Realty to submit a site plan application for a proposed kiosk and apartment building on Main Street.

Kennett had asked the board for

Upton faces lawsuit

By WENDY HANSCOM

Upton and its School Committee are facing a breach of contract lawsuit.

Robert Dapolito of Upton is suing the town over how the School Committee handled bids to provide transportation for the town's students to SAD44 schools.

The committee voted to accept a bid by Dapolito earlier this summer, but later rescinded that vote, according to committee head Wanda Lavalley.

Dapolito claims the initial acceptance constituted a contract, which the board then defaulted on, Lavalley said.

"It was voted on and then later voted on again and rescinded," Lavalley said. "He's upset it was awarded and then rescinded, and he's not letting it go. We have the right to accept or reject any and all bids. He also put a bid in the second time it was put out to bid."

The School Committee put its transportation needs out to bid three times, according to Lavalley.

The first time around the committee accepted Dapolito's bid, but later rejected it as more than the town could afford.

The town's transportation needs went out to bid twice more but with different specs each time, but all

Furniture stock firm Norway is bent on expansion bank eyes Bethel

By WENDY HANSCOM

Bethel Furniture Stock is experiencing growing pains, and next week the company president will ask the Bethel Planning Board to approve expansion plans at the mill.

In 1986, the mill added a chairback-bending operation. Eight bending machines now operate around the clock, producing about 50 percent of the company's overall business.

Some of the machines are tucked in a corner of one of the mill's two main buildings. The rest of the operation is scattered throughout different areas of the mill.

Company president Leon Favreau said he will ask the Planning Board for approval of a new 50-by-140-foot building to house the bending department.

The building would be the first phase of a planned three-phase expansion at the mill. The new space would be located on the west side of the mill complex.

"We need to be more efficient," Favreau said. "We do bending in three areas, and bending forms are stored in two different areas. The new building will make it easier on our employees. There's a lot of demand and we need to make more value-added products."

Moving the bending area out of the company's sawmill would also make room for a computerized cut-off saw, Favreau said.

A 30-by-80-foot addition to the sawmill is planned for phase two. The addition would house a lumber stacker and unstacker, Favreau said.

The company's third project would be a small addition to the rough mill, where glued wood panels are cut and assembled.

Favreau said construction on the new bending building will begin as soon as the Planning Board gives its approval.

ENVIROS ADD ON FALSE COSTS

To the Editor:

This is in response to the letter to the editor entitled "Taxes Subsidize Logging Sales," (Citizen, Sept. 14).

A major reason costs outweigh income in cuts on Federal land is the extremely high cost of documentation, environmental assessment, supervision and adherence to performance standards that organizations such as The Wilderness Society have pressured the government to adopt. To force the cost of sales to an absurdly high figure and then use that cost as a reason for discontinuing them is clever politics. It is also extremely unfair to the loggers, truck drivers, mill workers, gas station owners, equipment salesmen, mechanics, etc., and their families who attempt to derive a livelihood from woods harvesting.

Even with the high costs, harvesting brings in far more income than the other activities like recreation enhancement and fish and waterfowl habitat improvements that the Forest Service undertakes. And sensible harvesting is essential. It is essential to the health of the forest, wildlife habitat and the local economy.

There are many environmentally sensitive, sustained yield harvesting operations being conducted on private land in this area that bring a profit to the landowner, income for workers, opportunities for recreation and suitable habitat for wildlife. This should also be the case on the White Mountain National Forest.

LOOKING FOR GRANITE

To the Editor:

The Bethel Historical Society is seeking donations of cut granite to replace the wood steps on the back of the Dr. Moses Mason House, which have been a maintenance problem since the house opened to the public 20 years ago. The granite need not be choice quality, but some that was used for a house or barn foundation.

Anyone having granite that he or she might wish to donate is urged to call the Bethel Historical Society at 207-824-2908 or write P.O. Box 12, Bethel, Me., 04217-0012. Someone representing the society will be happy to look at any possibility. All donations are tax deductible as allowable by law.

selectmen Monday is also far below the fee originally projected for Phase One of the project. That fee had initially been estimated at $175,000, but much of that was accounted for by the proposed 120-room hotel and another retail/residential building -- both of which have now been delayed until at least next year.

The vote to accept the lower fee was unanimous, but the board stipulated that after three years the actual water usage of the buildings would be examined and the fee could be adjusted upward (but not downward) if warranted.

Any such adjustment would be retroactive to the beginning of the occupancy period.

Winter sand shed OK's

The board also approved plans Monday for the winter-sand shed the developers are constructing as part of the Cross Street land swap.

The shed will have a capacity of 9300 cubic yards -- making it, according to Merrill, "the largest salt/sand shed in North America, except for one in Canada." (Last year the town put up 6500 cubic yards of winter sand.)

The selectmen also required Monday that Merrill construct a shed that will hold 50 cubic yards of pure salt. Such a structure was part of the original contract for the land swap.

The selectmen left it to Merrill's engineers to determine whether such a shed should be attached to the winter sand shed or be free standing. The town's consulting engineer will then approve the proposal.

bids were rejected as too expensive, Lavalley said. The committee ultimately contracted with SAD44 to transport its students.

Dapolito is asking for an unspecified settlement, Lavalley said, charging a breach of contract.

Lavalley said she thinks the committee handled the bidding process legally. She checked on the specifics with the Maine School Management Association before the board voted to rescind its accep-

Land closing OK's

The board also agreed Monday to allow the developers to exercise their option and close on the 6.2-acre town parcel that will lie at the heart of the $25 million development.

That agreement was predicated on Merrill escrowing funds equal to the value of the new construction.

Once the developers take title to the Cross Street parcel it will be leased back to the town (for one dollar) until the new municipal garage and ambulance barn are ready for occupancy.

Merrill said Monday that the municipal garage is expected to be ready by early December.

Merrill also presented a preliminary site plan for the relocated ambulance barn, which is now slated to be moved to a lower Main Street lot adjacent to the current Chamber of Commerce office.

Planners OK station, movie

The Bethel Planning Board last week approved the two Bethel Station buildings still slated for construction this season -- the train station and Casablanca Building.

Plans for the Casablanca Building include a 100-seat restaurant, a three-screen movie theater, and, on the second floor, three condominium units.

The size of the proposed train station has shrunk from 4800 square feet to 2200 square feet, because, Merrill said, the state is now slated to own the building and lease it back to the developers, and its function will only be as a public building, with no private enterprises there.

tance of the bid, she said. SAD44 Superintendent of Schools Ronald Jenkins, who also serves as Upton's state agent, said he was asked to draw up an agreement with Dapolito, but later told the committee had reconsidered.

"The town and the committee think they followed all the right procedure," Jenkins said. Depositions on the case are scheduled for Sept. 28 in Lewiston, she said.

New book pictures White Mts.

By WENDY HANSCOM

Picture the White Mountain region in years gone by, its people, interests, and commerce. That's the task Randy Bennett took up for his new book, "The White Mountains, in old photos."

The book contains a general history and 215 photos, postcards or stereo-views of the White Mountains of Maine and New Hampshire.

Bennett, curator of the Bethel Historical Society, takes a chronological look at life in the area through old images of its people and places -- from early settlers and Indians to the 1960s.

He compares this book to his earlier work "Bethel, Maine An Illustrated History," in which a moderate amount of text complements hundreds of photos with descriptions.

"The White Mountains" book has a bit less text, Bennett said, but information on the area is packed into photo captions.

"It covers everything from Upton, Grafton Notch to Lovell and Fryeburg, and into Dixville Notch, Littleton and Franconia Notch in New Hampshire," he said. "It's a general history as well as a picture book. Bethel and Fryeburg are prominently featured."

"It tells how the area was settled," he said. "It's unique geography, with lofty summits. It features local Indians and how they inhabited the area, farming, logging, tourists in the 19th century and the scientists and artists who came into the area."

A tourist attraction

The bulk of the work features the White Mountains' "golden era," of tourism, Bennett said.

For about 50 years, from 1850 to 1900, trainloads of wealthy tourists flocked to the area to spend the summer away from hot, crowded cities to the south. They took up residence in the grand hotels and inns that graced the landscape.

"It began with the coming of the railroad in 1851," Bennett said, "and declined with the advent of the automobile. People came to the hotels to stay for the entire season. They packed up to get out of the city. They tended to be the more well-to-do people."

"As soon as the automobile became available, a lot of the large hotels, like the Summit House on Mt. Washington or the Glen House in Pinkham Notch began to decline. People weren't restricted to the railroad anymore as they didn't come and spend the whole summer. They might come for a week or two. Then you saw motor inns and hotels begin catering to cars, people who weren't as well-to-do could come to the White Mountains. The grand hotels started to fail."

Photographs are all that's left of many of the hotels. Some burned, others fell into decay and were torn down.

The Summit House on top of Mt. Washington is one of the hotels that was destroyed by fire. But before it burned, just getting to the resort was an adventure.

Tourists loaded on trains from the south, rode the rails to New Hampshire, took a special excursion vehicle from the railroad tracks to the mountain base and then chugged up to the top of New England's highest peak on the cog railway.

The Summit House on Mt. Washington burned on a windy day in 1908, just before opening for the tourist season.

New interest in an old subject

Choosing photographs from the 2,000 to 3,000 Bennett had to pick from was a challenging task, he said.

"It was fun," he said, "but it was difficult to choose what photos to best illustrate the times. A lot of the photos didn't have people in them. Photographers at the time seemed to wait until everyone had cleared out to take pictures."

Bennett's book is the first one in many years to feature the history of the White Mountains, he said.

"There's been an awful lot of interest in the White Mountains in the past," he said. "But this is one of the first chronological histories of its type published in quite a few years. Other older books have been long out of publication."

The book is being published by Berwick Publishing Incorporated, in Dover, N.H., which specializes in local history books with lots of photographs.

Bennett's book will be 128 pages and include 215 photos. It will be available at book stores and gift shops. A book-signing at the Moses Mason House will probably be held in late October.

This is the eighth book Bennett has published. He is also working on editing a history of the Richardson Lakes, and plans to write a book on Maine mineral springs and spas.

Historical Society director Stanley Howe's first book, which traces the history of the Grange in Maine, is also due out in October.

Potting the Baldacci Campaign

By MIKE BROWN

Maine citizens should consider very carefully the astounding marijuana scandal now surrounding Second District Democratic candidate John Baldacci and his campaign.

The facts are that two Bangor bicycle cops found Rosemary Baldacci, the candidate's sister and campaign manager, and her companion, Sheila Long, the candidate's press secretary, in a car smoking pot in a closed public waterfront park. The two officers approached the car to tell the occupants the park was closed when they discovered the illegal substance, allegedly a total amount under one and one-quarter ounces which is a civil, not criminal, offense. There was a bag of pot and several used marijuana cigarettes in the ashtray.

John Baldacci did not detail the resignations scenario of his two top campaign officers. However, he did announce that they could continue as unpaid and untitled volunteers.

Damage control by the Baldacci organization includes the candidate's hometown newspaper, the Bangor Daily News, which in a mindless editorial opined that the pot-possession case "should not be decisive in this campaign," and more incredibly, "the candidate is carrying the whole load."

The sheer stupidity of two top congressional campaign workers smoking illegal dope after dark in a closed public park is mind-boggling. The compounded stupidity of candidate Baldacci who would represent the largest congressional district east of the Mississippi in not throwing the pot smokers permanently off the campaign is enhanced arrogance even for a career politician like Baldacci.

Rosemary Baldacci and Sheila Long as volunteers can do the exact same duties for the candidate as they did in paid and official roles but be publicly anonymous and unaccountable.

The public examination of this illegal incident should be thorough in fact by enforcement authorities, campaign ethics guidelines, and ultimately with the conscience of voters.

There is an ongoing campaign to relegate marijuana to a harmless, much ostracized substance. It is no such thing. Mounds of national and state law enforcement data clearly reveal its insidious role as a menu drug, especially for kids. The facts warrant marijuana being a controlled substance by the Congress and every state legislature.

Candidate Baldacci has stated that he is against possession and use of marijuana. If so, he should fully reveal and swear to his voting record in the Maine Legislature on marijuana legislation. Especially LD 2420 in the 115th Legislature to legalize marijuana, and LD 870 in the 116th which would restrict marijuana surveillance by helicopter. Unfortunately, the Senate did not record roll calls on these bills. However, they were initiatives and sponsored by Democrats in both the House and Senate.

The public should consider the plausibility of whether John Baldacci knew his sister Rosemary was a marijuana user and its dangers. In the instance where his sister and Long were caught, they were obviously prepared to drive possibly under the influence of drugs. The Baldaccis are a very close family both in business and private lives.

And the question must arise about candidate Baldacci's ability to occupy a congressional office. If Baldacci did not know what was going on in his family and campaign staff, how will he manage a large congressional office and assume a competent role in the myriad complexities of the U.S. Congress?

Candidate Baldacci's many campaign puzzles should raise caution flags. He appointed former House Speaker John Martin as a campaign don when Martin was discredited by his chief of staff and Martin was kicked from the speaker's office by his own party.

Clearly, the Baldacci affair is not a matter of the heart and family. It is whether John Baldacci is a competent candidate to assume one of the highest offices in this nation.

Briefly

Landslide vote to use reserve funds

ANDOVER--By a vote of 513 to 25, Andover residents decided recently to take $200,000 from the COMSAT trust fund to reduce 1994 taxes. Property tax in Andover had been projected to increase 80 percent due to the loss of $144,000 in taxes from MCI. Fewer than 50 people attended a special Town Meeting prior to the vote. At that meeting, townspeople approved by a vote of 26 to 16 the appropriation of $50,000 from a contingency fund to also help reduce taxes. Selectmen set the town's tax rate last week at $13.30 per $1,000 of assessed value.

State's valuations of towns out

AUGUSTA--Andover and Woodstock were the only local towns whose 1995 state valuations did not go up at least slightly. Valuations of SAD44-area towns are as follows: Andover -- $55,250,000 in 1994 to $43,350,000 in 1995; Bethel -- $129,850,000 to $139,000,000; Gilead -- $9,250,000 to $9,450,000; Greenwood -- $56,150,000 to $56,650,000; Newry -- $104,850,000 to $125,950,000; and Woodstock -- $53,150,000 to $52,300,000. State valuations determine how much individual towns pay to the school district. Andover's valuation dropped about $12 million for example, so SAD44 will bill the town less next year, while Newry, with a $21 million increase, will be asked to pay more to the district.

Snowe in the lead for senate

PORTLAND--A telephone survey conducted last week by a New Jersey firm showed Republican Olympia Snowe is leading Democrat Tom Andrews and Independent Plato Truman in the race for the U.S. Senate. Of the 500 people polled, 47 percent said they'd vote for Snowe, 33 percent for Andrews, 3 percent for Truman and 17 percent were undecided.

Water District meeting postponed

ANDOVER--Water District officials, selectmen and representatives of the Environmental Protection Agency will meet on Sept. 28 at 6 p.m. The meeting was originally scheduled for Sept. 12. The group will discuss the installation of a proposed new water system, and whether or not samples from test wells on Main Street should be tested for contamination from underground petroleum spills.

Cohen wants timber program funded

WASHINGTON, D.C.--U.S. Sen. Bill Cohen has asked the Clinton administration to back off a plan to drastically cut the White Mountain National Forest timber sales program. Cohen, a Republican, said the administration should support the WMNF long-range plan that was approved in 1986. The plan calls for an annual timber harvest of about 36 million board feet. The WMNF has maintained a level of about 29 million board feet annually since the plan was approved. The administration has proposed cutting the program by two-thirds to a 9.6-million-board-foot harvest. "From every perspective, this decision is a bad one," said Cohen. "I urge Secretary (of Agriculture Mike) Espy to reconsider the cut and return the White Mountain National Forest to its current timber sales level."

Forest recommendations released

EAST BURKE, VT.--The Northern Forest Lands Council released its final recommendations, "Finding Common Ground: Conserving the Northern Forest," on Monday, Sept. 19, at concurrent morning press conferences in Maine, New Hampshire, New York and Vermont. That same day, the report also was mailed third-class to everyone on the council's mailing list. Additional copies of the report will be available at the Vermont meeting. Anyone interested in learning more about the press conferences should contact the following people: Maine, Donald Mansius at 287-4906; New Hampshire, Susan Francher at 603-271-2214. The council's final meeting will be Friday, Sept. 23, at Burke Mountain Ski Area in East Burke, Vt., from 10 a.m. to 12 noon. The purpose of this meeting is twofold. First, the council must take some administrative actions to formally disband. Second, council members will offer some closing remarks and share their perspectives on the past four years of work. The council welcomes anyone with an interest to attend.

MEA score low in Washington County

AUGUSTA--Washington County has logged the lowest Maine Educational Assessment score in a three-year average of 11th grade testing. Four out of the bottom seven high schools in the state are in Washington County. Androscoggin County's six high schools ranked next to last for the three-year average. For the 1993-94 school year, Telstar High School's three-year average ranked 94th out of 127 schools.

Moose avoidance system?

DETROIT, MICH.--Auto makers are working on a night-vision systems that would allow drivers to see obstacles on dark or foggy roads. The systems will probably have displays similar to those used by fighter pilots that project an image in front of the driver on the windshield. The system could pick up a cow, moose or other large object as far away as a quarter mile. Some car companies are using radar-based systems, while others are trying infrared light. Most of the big car companies want the systems in place in luxury cars by the end of the century. Conservative estimates put the cost of the system at about $1,200.

Snow in Caribou

CARIBOU--The calendar may still say summer, but Caribou residents already know winter's on the way. A mixture of rain and snow fell Monday at Caribou Municipal Airport. The snowfall was only a trace, but it was the city's third earliest recorded trace of snow.

From the Bethel Police log:

Forklift face-off may lead to charges

Bethel police say a Lewiston man put an officer and the town's cruiser in danger early Friday morning, Sept. 16, when the man drove a forklift too close to the police car.

Chief Dale Bellman tracked a car with a noisy exhaust to the P.H. Chadbourne & Co. parking lot. While radioing in the registration plate, Bellman reported seeing the man drive a forklift up to the passenger side of the cruiser, and raise the machine's blades up over the car. Bellman yelled to the man to move the forklift away. The man did not. Following a discussion of the noisy exhaust, the man got back in the forklift and lowered the machine's tines closer to the cruiser, according to Bellman's report. Another Chadbourne employee helped calm down the Lewiston man. No damage was done to the cruiser. Bellman will file a report with the district attorney's office to see if the man can be charged with driving to endanger, the chief said.

In other police news last week, on Sept. 13 Sgt. Darren Tripp failed to negotiate and turn a put the cruiser in a ditch. Tripp was chasing a motorcyclist who failed to stop when police attempted to pull him over. The motorcyclist went up Route 5 and turned into a driveway. Tripp failed to make the turn into the driveway and the cruiser went into the ditch. No damage to the cruiser was reported. Police from other agencies helped push the cruiser back onto the road. Tripp's report said overheated brakes may have contributed to the accident.

Bethel police also made two arrests Wednesday. Kimberly Day, 23, of Bethel was arrested for criminal trespass, according to police. When residents saw her there they called police. Day attempted to flee through the woods but was apprehended by police. She was charged with criminal trespass, arrested and transported to Oxford County Jail. In connection with Day's arrest, another BPA woman, Melinda Manjoura, 26, of Bethel was summonsed for obstruction of government administration for telling police Day was not in Manjoura's apartment.

Apples

pick-your-own business.

Herb Lyon of Bethel had the best things to say about this year's crop. The winter's effect on his 15-acre orchard was minimal, thanks to its southern exposure and a good number of cold-resistant young trees.

"It's better than last year. The apples are average size, and the cool nights we've been having have helped the color. The warm summer helped, too," he said.

A crew of Guatemalan pickers was scheduled to start work in his orchard last weekend, with the picking lasting about three weeks. Lyon delivers his apples for sale in stores locally, as well as for shipping to destinations as far away as Florida and California.

In the cider business, Frank Gibson's son Ira is nurturing an expanding operation that he runs with his wife, Kristen.

"Business is taking off fairly well. It's doubled from our first year (1991), Gibson said. He expects to sell more cider this year to local grocery stores.

About three gallons of cider are produced from a bushel of apples. Last year the Gibsons made 1900 gallons; so far this year they're up to 350 gallons. Gibson said the early cider is tart, just like the early Mac and Milton apples used to make it. Later cider will be sweeter, when more apple varieties are available. The Gibsons use a mix of varieties to produce their own unique flavor.

Hailstorms this summer spelled trouble for some western Maine apple growers, but this trick of nature only helped the cider business. "We've had stronger supplies of apples than last year because of the hail damage," said Gibson.

He's also adding a new product to his business this year -- apple boxes for the pick'em-yourselfers at his father's orchard. "Leaf peepers decide while they're out driving around that they'd like to pick apples, and they come without containers. We have a shingle mill, so I've been making apple boxes for them. I don't expect it to be a huge business, though."

Stranger things have happened. End tables, anyone?

In a small bowl combine: 2/3 cup melted butter, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup flour, 1 egg, pinch of salt, 1/4 cup chopped nuts (optional). Pour mixture over apples. Bake at 350 for 45 minutes or until golden brown.

an advisory opinion regarding construction on the lot where his former office burned in 1992. He said he wanted to put up a kiosk and a "small apartment building."

Chairman Frank Vogt told Kennett it might be best to submit a plan for the apartment building before the two-year grace period, given following a fire, runs out in December.

Building on the lot after two years would probably require setback waivers, he said.

Board member Donald Feeney agreed.

"If you build before December you can go back and cover the whole lot as the old building did," Feeney said. "and where you're proposing a smaller building with more parking, I would say you have a lot of bargaining power."

Kennett said he plans to file the permit applications before the two-year grace period is up.

The board also told Kennett the kiosk would probably be need a site plan application as a commercial structure, and not just a sign permit.

cluding the town-owned parcel next to the railroad tracks.

But the town parcel is now slated for the relocated ambulance barn, and the town ambulance crew, Montpelier said, "will be good neighbors."

The bank is now planning to construct a new building on two other parcels -- the Chamber of Commerce site and a larger parcel behind it.

Montpelier said the new branch could be ready for business by late spring, assuming shoreland zoning and floodplain issues can be resolved.

Mahoosuc Arts notes:

The Mahoosuc Arts Council is pleased to begin its 1994-95 season with a community performance by the Atlantic Clarion Steel Band on Sept. 23, at 7 p.m. at the Crescent Park School.

The Steel Band will perform earlier in the day for the elementary students of Andover, Woodstock and Crescent Park schools.

The Annual Phone-athon for Mahoosuc Arts will take place on the evenings of Sept. 26 and 27. This year's goal is $6,000 and is the major fundraising event.

Volunteers will be calling individuals and businesses to ask for donations which will help the council to continue bringing quality programs in the arts to the SAD44 schools and communities.

This year's programming will include seven community shows and 13 assemblies and an artist-in-residence project for the elementary, middle and high schools.

On Saturday, Oct. 8, the Mahoosuc Arts Hike/Walk/Run will take place at Sunday River Ski Resort. This is the seventh year of this fun-filled event which attracts serious runners and family hikers alike.

This year, the name and the format have been changed slightly. "The Great Mahoosuc Arts Hike/Bike/Run" will include a new component -- a competitive mountain bike race over 10 miles of posted trails. A pre-registration price of $12 entitles the first 150 registrants to a long-sleeve, 100 percent cotton T-shirt and makes them eligible for valuable prizes.

Present your race number at the Mountain Bike Park to receive a 50-percent discount on a Sunday River Mountain Bike Park pass for the day. Watch for future articles about this exciting event. Registration forms are available by calling the Mahoosuc Arts office at 824-3575.

The council would like to thank and congratulate Diana and Debra Gallant for submitting the design for this year's race T-shirt. The design reflects a symbolic American Indian motif.

Resident of Bethel Park Apartments is arrested for growing, trafficking drugs

By WENDY HANSCOM

A Bethel Park Apartments' man was arrested last week and charged with trafficking by cultivation and unlawful furnishing of the schedule Z drug marijuana. Both charges are class D misdemeanors.

Darrin Farrington, 28, was arrested after local police received several tips about marijuana growing in the woods off Route 2 west of Bethel.

Bethel Police, Oxford County Sheriff's Office deputies and Maine Drug Enforcement agents investigated the complaints, which led police to a site where police say Farrington was growing marijuana. Police found a total of 13 plants and miscellaneous gardening tools.

Police also seized about 7 ounces of marijuana from Farrington's Bethel Park Apartment residence. Other drug paraphernalia was also found. A homemade device used to manufacture hashish oil was seized. The oil is an illegal drug that contains concentrated marijuana resin.

Farrington was charged with trafficking based on cultivation of marijuana. The furnishing charge is based on the packaged marijuana seized at the residence.

It is possible the furnishing charge will be bumped up (aggravated) to a felony, according to Bethel Police Chief Dale Bellman, because Farrington's apartment may be within 1,000 feet of the Crescent Park School. Dealing drugs in a school-zone is a felony offense, Bellman said.

Farrington is scheduled for arraignment in Rumford District Court on Oct. 11 at 8 a.m.

Police officers working on the arrest with MDEA special agent Tony Milligan were S.O. deputies Matt Baker and Thomas Albrecht and Bethel police officers, Bellman, Sgt. Darren Tripp and officer Gene Allen.

Most drug trafficking investigations are initiated by citizens' complaints, Milligan said, confidential information may be referred to police at the MDEA hotline, 1-800-452-6457.

"Between The Lines"

Dear Friends,
Yes, the rumors are true. BOOKS N-THINGS will soon be opening a second store in Bethel!
Our second location will be at 162 Main Street, in the Victorian house so lovingly restored by Pat Thurston. We think the new space lends itself well to being a cozy bookshop with lots of ambience.
Of course, there's so much to do to make everything come together (Katie likens it to putting on a giant Thanksgiving dinner and hoping that the turkey, squash and peated onions all come out cooked at the same time - and oops, don't forget to brown the rolls). We're shooting for a late October, early November opening. Judy Lamb McLaughlin, who has been at the Oxford store for six years, will manage the new store.
We're so very pleased to expand our service to our Bethel customers who've had to travel all the way to the Oxford Plaza store. And we look forward to meeting lots of new friends too. We'll keep you posted!

Greenwood City

By COLISTA MORGAN

This is September, the beginning of another great season of the year.

The valley, in the morning is blanketed sometimes with a soft white fog, but it rises and the hills stand crystal clear. The air seems lighter. The meadows are yellow with goldenrod, and the asters are blooming.

Summer has ended, it's turned the corner and flitting her skirts. So now it is memory of springtime or dread of the winter that hurts? Summer has turned the corner as gay gypsy autumn appears. She smiles a farewell as she passes. I wonder why I am in tears. (Ina Ladd)

What goes on in our outdoor world? The natural world is thrilling in the way it works; mental stimulation, feeling of freedom all around and available at little expense for anyone who will take a look. In a natural surrounding some single feature dominates. Maybe it will be a majestic mountain, a shady road, a brook or perhaps a single tree. One of mine is the pond and its surroundings, which has a great interest to me. Early morning it's so enchanting, so quiet, so new. The world has been reborn through the night. There is a bloom upon it like the bloom upon an untouched grape.

Spring brings the ducks and the little ones hollering to high heavens for mamma. They skitter across the water to the shelter of the weeds.

In summer, the water dimples and sparkles like an acre of diamonds. Birds move above it. Even the drenched grass and dripping bushes are interesting.

In autumn, there is beauty everywhere. Winter, too, has a tale to tell. I look at it all.

Robert came to the farm on Sunday to help his father with his wood. David came also but because of the severe injury to his arm and shoulder he is unable to help.

Irene Stevens was taken to the hospital one day this week. We hope she gets better soon.

Lettie and I spent the day together on Thursday. We had lunch and did some shopping.

Leonas Holt's sister Edith and her husband Howard Gardner visited him and the family on Sunday afternoon.

No. Woodstock

By SHANE BILLINGS

There was a wedding in North Woodstock this week. Giori Bolio married Gregory Murphy at the Bryant Pond Baptist Church on Saturday, Sept. 10. Following the ceremony, the bride and groom rode in a horse-drawn carriage to the Woodstock School, where a reception was held.

Howard and Betty Smith from Pittsburgh, Pa., called on Emma Billings, Phil Davis and Rob Davis. Emma was also visited by Howard and Myrtle Perkins from South Paris, and by her good friends June Roy and Nancy Henderson.

Kara Jaques spent some time with her grandparents in Livermore recently.

While out walking, Sue Silver saw a bobcat. Sue has spotted several animals this year, but this was probably the most exciting.

By LOUISE LORING

Part of the pleasure of living in this little community are mountains, whose picturesquely changes not only from season but from moment to moment. As the sun casts its golden rays their peaks, clouds above moving shadows along their flanks. Especially in autumn the seem to move, as one sees through a kaleidoscope. In our imagination you can readily yourself high above all caring alone upon the mountain viewing houses below in mist. This is a good exercise that form from time to time, renews my soul and provides with the courage I so often face life's trials and tribulations come to all of us mere humans.

In the morning when shadows break and the awakens, I picture myself a mountain, alone with the hush of nature, and with the adoration of what I mentally actually can feel the calm of freshness of the glorious here. The morning star hangs diamond far above me in the sphere, as it promises new tasks, and restores vigour day, and I return to reality clearer vision of today.

Robert Noyes, Sr. was transferred by ambulance to Stephens Memorial Hospital on Sept. 8, where he underwent emergency surgery. Bob serves in the office of the local environmental officer and is a very hard worker. He operates a waste disposal and holds down a job at the Inn, also. He is a good natured willing to lend a helping hand when he has time, is a real "handyman" that one can hire those jobs about one's property need to be done. Our sincere wishes go out to Bob and his family for a speedy, healthy recovery. This writing Bob has returned from the hospital and is proceeding nicely.

Fifth-grade students from participated in an overnight experience that teaches leadership skills, at Pond on the 15th and 16th week. Children from here

Part of the pleasure of living in this little community are the mountains, whose picturesque beauty changes not only from season to season but from moment to moment. As the sun casts its golden rays upon their peaks, clouds above cast moving shadows along their heights. Especially in autumn the colors seem to move, as one sees them through a kaleidoscope. In one's imagination you can readily picture yourself high above all cares, standing alone upon the mountain top viewing houses below in miniature. This is a good exercise that I perform from time to time, and it renews my soul and provides me with the courage I so often need to face life's trials and tribulations that come to all of us mere humans daily.

In the morning when purple shadows break and the birds awaken, I picture myself atop the mountain, alone with the solemn hush of nature, and with breathless adoration of what I mentally see. I actually can feel the calm dew and freshness of the glorious morning here. The morning star hangs like a diamond far above me in the atmosphere, as it promises new hopes, new tasks, and restores vigor to the day, and I return to reality with a clearer vision of today.

Robert Noyes, Sr., was transported by ambulance to Stephens Memorial Hospital on Sept. 8, where he underwent emergency surgery that evening. Bob serves in the capacity of the local environmental waste site officer and is a very hard worker. He operates a waste disposal route and holds down a job at the Sudbury Inn, also. He is a good neighbor, willing to lend a helping hand, and, when he has time, is a responsible "handyman" that one can hire for all those jobs about one's property that need to be done. Our sincerest best wishes go out to Bob and his family for a speedy, healthy recovery. At this writing Bob has returned home from the hospital and is progressing nicely.

Fifth-grade students from Gilead participated in an overnight camping experience that teaches and develops leadership skills, at Papoose Pond on the 15th and 16th of last week. Children from here who attended were: Joseph Gaudreau, Michael Gordon, Johnny Sweetser, Beth Corriveau, Tanya Corriveau, and Jessica James. It was reported that a good time was had by all.

Linda Smith, accompanied by Gail Ainsworth of Dummer, N.H., shopped in Portland one day last week.

Jeremy Smith celebrated his 17th birthday at his home here on Sept. 11, and on the following day, Linda, Alicia and Jeremy went to Rumford Point to celebrate the occasion with Grandmother Yvonne Sessions. They dined out on that occasion.

Beatrice Leonard is entering her senior year at New Hampshire Vocational School in Berlin, where she is majoring in human services. Last spring, Beatrice made the president's list, and we are all proud of Bea's ongoing accomplishments. Go for it, Beatrice! More power to you, Bea!!!

Forrest Young, owner and operator of the Evans Notch Motel and Country Store, reports that his businesses have felt the crunch and absence of the Canadian tourist dollar. A lot of Route 2 travelers are from the western part of Canada and they by-pass Quebec in favor of a more scenic route. This year's tourists were very few, and as a result our little Country Store will have to be closed again this winter.

That seems to be all the news I have been able to garner this week, folks, so until next week then -- God Bless and Keep the Peace.

A late and additional S.O.S. item -- Have you seen a stray cockatoo flying about your tree tops? If so, please capture and call Lois McGurn. We hope by the time this newspaper hits the stands the little bird is safely back home again.

Mrs. Stella Johnson is here in town from Maryland and is visiting her sister and husband, Harriett and Ralph Brown, also her mother, Sarah Grover, at Ledgeview Nursing Home in West Paris. While here, she will attend her 50th class reunion at Gould Academy and visit with her many friends.

Betsy Wilson was taken to the hospital this past week and is very ill. Do hope she's better at this writing.

On Tuesday, Sept. 13, I attended the Stephens Memorial Hospital Auxiliary luncheon and meeting at Camp Susan Curtis. It was a real good lunch and meeting. The raffle tickets were drawn at this time. I believe the quilt was won by Christopher Shorey, the bear by Jeanette Roderick, the coffee carafe by Barbara Lucas and the wreath by Laurie Penna. It was voted and presented to the fund raiser to the hospital the amount of $5,000. There were about 50 people there from the surrounding areas and most all agreed what a beautiful dining lodge overlooking the Trout Lake and what a lovely area. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were given and accepted. All committee reports were given. The membership coffees and the upcoming Harvest Dinner Dance were discussed.

On Tuesday, Sept. 13, the first meeting of the season of the Stoneham Knight Riders Snowmobile Club was held at the Stoneham Fire Station with president Eben Harmon presiding. The speaker was Mr. Bill Price from Bridgton, who told us about the new trail maps available for the clubs and members. Much business was taken care of and preparations discussed about the annual landowners' appreciation day cookout to be held on Sept. 18 at the Club House. Discussion was made about the calendar of events for the coming winter season. There were about 25 people in attendance at this meeting. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and accepted.

Monday night, there was a short meeting of the church officers to discuss problems and try to come up with a solution. Several options were mentioned which hopefully will bring an answer for the future of the church.

This week has been green tomato relish and pickles on the agenda. The cellar shelves are looking good with the shiny jars lined up there full of food for the coming winter days.

Dennis Farnsworth helped Albert Nelson, Sr. one day this week cutting bushes. These cool nights and days are just what the doctor ordered -- good for walking.

A correction in last week's news is in order. It said Jim Favor teaches music at the European Bible Institute in Paris, but it is his friend there who teaches, not Jim.

Ricky Mack and his daughter Randy celebrate birthdays one day apart, Sept. 10 and 11. They were honored at a cookout at Donna and Dick Koshiba's home with cake and ice cream included. Randy received a letter and presents from Florida. Randy is five years old and this is her first year of school. She attends Woodstock Elementary. Her great-grandmother said Randy loves school.

I took in the Oxford County Fair in Oxford Thursday evening. I went mainly because my granddaughter Sarah Hart was a contestant in the Miss Oxford County Fair pageant Thursday night. Erin Cox (I believe from Buckfield) was the winner and Sarah was first runner-up. Five girls competed, reading essays they had written and answering questions asked of them. They all did a fine job and are all winners as far as I can see.

While at the fair waiting for the pageant to start, Ernest Angevine and his wife were sitting right behind me. We had a nice chat catching up on the news. I also ran into Billy Mason, who I had not seen for quite a while. Sandra Monzo and children Jamie, Tara, Erika and Ian were there taking in the rides and games. Sandra's sister, Sherry Poland, was along to help keep track of the excited children.

Joan Poland, who broke her arm a couple of weeks ago at Step Falls in Newry, is slowly improving. I have spent some time with her this past week. I never take time to visit usually, so this has been a chance to do some catching up.

Ellsworth Hathaway has moved two mobile homes onto lots on Route 26. One mobile home is being replaced with a newer model. Craig and Bridy Moore and children will live there. The other mobile home is for Ellsworth's and Joyce's daughter-in-law, who will be living in this area for a while later on. Ellsworth has had a lot of work done to get the lots ready for the homes.

Larry Billings, curator, Woodstock Historical Society, reports that at the September meeting of the society Evelyn Bean was elected president, Larry Billings, curator, and Annella Burnham is chairperson of the Board of Trustees. The program was on the railroad in Canada. Olive Risko also gave a research report. The society observed that there were many visitors to the museum over the summer, and it looks forward to another year. Mr. Billings also adds that the society has an outstanding collection of books about antiques. It is an ideal place to study old things. He also notes he has a few handouts on antiques if anyone wants them. Mr. Billings has given a few supplies to the museum recently.

Jason Berry celebrated his 16th birthday on Sept. 14. Sister Mandy made two birthday cakes for the party on Sept. 10.

Services were held at the Newry Community Church Sunday morning, Sept. 11, with Pastor Rodney Hanscom at the pulpit and daughter Nancy at the organ. The Message of the Day was: "Who Am I," from Mark 8:27-38.

The Newry Community Church Ladies Circle met at president Sylvia Wight's residence Monday noon, Sept. 12. The president opened the meeting with devotion, "The Right Direction," where are we heading? Secretary-treasurer Freda Robertson read the notes of the last meeting and brought the finances up to date. A get-well card will be sent to Rena's husband, Bernard Powers, who had an operation on Monday. A reminder to the members that on Oct. 26 there will be a Congregational Church Fellowship luncheon at noon. Next meeting will be at Louise Tetley's on Oct. 10 at noon. Coffee and pie were served and the meeting was adjourned.

Louise Tetley and Yours Truly went to the Rumford Community House Health Center one day last week to visit with Amy and Roger Hanscom. Their niece was also there. We had a nice visit and found them well.

The Newry Mothers' Club met Monday night, Sept. 12, at the Town Building with only six members present. After roll call secretary-treasurer Olive Anderson read the minutes of the last meeting and brought the finances up to date. Dues were paid, and Olive reported on sending cards to shut-ins and the not-so-well. An ode to the Grand Mothers was read by Gil Seeley in honor of all the Grand Mothers in Newry and all over the world. Mary Morin won the mystery prize. Next meeting will be Oct. 10 at 7:30 p.m. at the Town Building with Mary Morin and Karlene Bachelder on the snack committee. Where are all the members we used to have?? Too busy? Not interested? It's your kids who will go without if the club folds up; think about it!! The meeting was adjourned and a tasting party was enjoyed.

Bea Lowell, Irene Hadfield, Doris Parent and Louise Tetley, members of the Bethel Senior Citizens, enjoyed a buffet at the Locke Mills Town Hall with the rest of the Bethel members. An October foliage trip was planned.

Betsy Clark, Karlene Bachelder, Gil Seeley and Olive Anderson of the "Newry Bowling Gang" were at the Oxford Lanes, Rumford, one day last week. Betsy's mother, Dot Dore from New Hampshire, was a guest. On the overall score, Betsy was high on the triples, beating Karlene and Gil by six pins (they had tied). She also was high on the singles, beating Karlene by one pin. She had one strike and one spare, Karlene had two spares, Gil had four spares and Olive had one spare.

Bill, Sylvia and Owen Wight attended the 74th Annual Littlefield

Forward Fellowship will meet on Monday, Sept. 26, with Beverly Stevens. There will be a potluck supper at 6 p.m. and a silent auction will be held after the meeting. October and November will be busy months, so there will be committees to serve on.

On Oct. 1, the Annual Pumpkin Sale will take place at Emery's Building Supply yard at Trap Corner. The sale will start at 9 a.m. and continue until 1 p.m. Besides the usual pumpkins, there will be homemade foods, and people's cast-aways -- often called white elephants.

Howdy, folks. This is a beautiful morning, and while I'm waiting for it to warm up some I'll get started on my weekly news.

Last Monday evening we had quite a good turnout at our Franklin Grange meeting, although the day's weather hadn't been too desirable. It was Maine Night with an open meeting until after the nice program. We did have to have a closed session, when members of Franklin Grange voted to accept the former Pleasant Pond Grange members as members of Franklin Grange. Lynda LaBree, deputy of the Maine State Grange and community service chairperson, was present to judge the lecturer's program. She gave it a high score.

Because of the holiday, Peggy had to do her card work at LaVerdiere's on Tuesday instead of Monday as usual. She's not allowed to work on official Maine holidays.

Tuesday evening, we attended Oxford Pomona 2, which was hosted by Norway Grange. We had a 6:30 p.m. potluck supper and members donated to the supper real well. This was installation of the new officers by Gordon Gartley, assistant steward of the Maine State Grange, and his installing team. All officers-elect were present to be installed into their office, which was a big help. There were several other visitors present besides the installing team.

We had a real busy day on Wednesday. We decided to go to Auburn in the forenoon for errands and to visit sister Viva at the Odd Fellows Home. Shopping at Wholesale Depot took longer than we had planned so it was getting late in the forenoon when we got to visit Viva. They had her up in her lounge chair and out near the dining area, where several patients were waiting for lunch.

After visiting Viva, we left for home and decided to stop at The Bullring Steak House in Oxford to get some lunch. We ate our lunch and then returned home.

After getting home, we canned several pints of ripe tomatoes and then picked and prepared string beans ready to cook. We had toyed with the thought of going to an Androscoggin Pomona meeting that was being held at Danville Junction Grange that evening, and since we decided that we had time to make it to the supper, we got ready and away we went, arriving there several minutes before supper time. We had a good supper and then attended the meeting. Members of Cumberland Pomona had come visiting and filled most of the offices for the evening. We were entertained by a barber-shop quartet. We enjoyed the singing very much and wished we were able to do as well. We had hoped to see Marion Tripp there, but she was on a trip to some Western state. Marion is a distant cousin of ours and we don't get to see her often.

Thursday was a nice day and I accomplished many odd jobs during the forenoon.

Peggy's daughter Myrna and husband Whitey came up so that Whitey could mow the lawns for us once again. I expect that this was the last time for Whitey to mow the lawns this season. They will leave soon for their winter home in Mesa, Ariz. We certainly have appreciated Whitey's mowing the lawns each week and we'll miss the weekly visit by them. Anyway, we hope they will have a good winter in Arizona and almost wish we were going too.

Late Friday afternoon, Peggy got a telephone call from Dorothy Brown, lecturer of the Maine State Grange, asking if it would be possible for her to get a group together to put on a style show similar to what we had done at our local grange several months ago. This will be part of the program after the banquet that precedes the Maine State Grange session, which starts on Oct. 27.

Peggy decided that she could do the style show again and is working on it.

Saturday forenoon, we canned 14 pints of beets. Then Peggy baked a cake, and in the afternoon she decorated it. It is shaped to resemble a large butterfly, and this cake will be in the West Paris Grange exhibit at Norway Fair.

Peggy attended the dance at Locke Mills Town Hall in the evening.

We picked some tomatoes Sunday forenoon and delivered them to Richard and Barbara Felt, as we were on our way to enjoy the pizza at Breaux's that I had won a ticket for at the American Legion Musical Supper in Locke Mills. It was a nice, cheesy pizza, and very good, but half of it will be eaten here later.

We went on to visit Loretta, Emerson and Russell Merrill in West Bethel. We also visited Mary and Jim Merrill so that Great-grandma could see her little great-granddaughter Lindsay Taylor Merrill.

Sunday School has resumed at the Congo Mission Church. Last Sunday was Rally Day.

The Lovejoy family had a gathering at their camp on North Pond the Sunday before Labor Day. They celebrated five birthdays at this gathering. David Small from Kennebunk was real generous and brought lobsters for them to enjoy.

There will be a dance at the Town Hall in Locke Mills on Saturday, Sept. 24, with music by the Richard Felt Orchestra. This is where old friends meet.

The ladies from West Paris Grange are now planning a Craft, Food and White Elephant Sale, to be held at their hall on Oct. 15. The price for each table will be $3 again this fall. If you wish to reserve a table, please call Peggy Blake at 674-3872, or Mary Lovejoy at 674-2147.

The date of the Flu Clinic at West Paris Grange has been changed to Oct. 25. This clinic will be serviced by Bethel Area Health Center and will run from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. The price will be $7.

The next meeting of Oxford Pomona 2 will be at Franklin Grange in Bryant Pond on Oct. 4. The Pomona Grange degree will be given at this meeting.

NEW SIBLING CLASS AT SMH

The Western Maine Family Birthplace at Stephens Memorial Hospital will offer a sibling class for big brothers- and sisters-to-be, ages 3 and up. The first class will be held on Saturday, Sept. 10, from 10:30 a.m. until noon in the Resource Room in the new wing.

The class will be taught by Nancy Ryan, LPN, an obstetric nurse. She will teach children about holding a baby, the importance of hand washing, helping Mom and Dad with the new baby, helping dress the baby and much more.

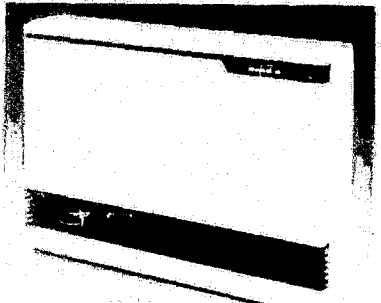

This class is the perfect way to prepare for the changes in the family a new baby will make, while making your older child feel special. The sibling class will be offered again in November and every other month after that.

All childbirth education classes are included in prenatal care fees. Call the Western Maine Family Birthplace at Stephens Memorial Hospital at 743-5933, Ext. 380 to preregister for the new sibling class.

Few Rebel runners hit the trails

By WENDY HANSCOM

The coach is still recruiting, but at this point the Telstar High School cross-country team looks thinner than an ultra-marathoner -- three deep on the girls' side and four on the boys'.

It takes a team of four runners to compete in a Mountain Valley Conference girls' or boys' meet.

Applin doesn't have enough girls to compete as a team, and sometimes there's not enough boys either.

Telstar still runs in meets, but the Rebels don't score as a team.

Telstar is not the only school in the MVC where cross-country running interest has fallen off.

At a recent meet with Lisbon, Leavitt and Jay, Applin said, neither Jay nor Leavitt had enough female runners to make up a team.

"I'm still working on trying to get some more runners," Applin said. "It seems to be a real problem to interest kids in individualized sports.

Everybody seems to be interested in team sports."

The Rebels will continue to host and travel to meets, Applin said.

"I hope to finish the season," he said. "The School Board could decide that they don't want to support the program, but I don't think that will happen."

This year's runners include veterans: senior Amy Howe, junior Becky Chandler and sophomores Jason Billings and Justin Gilbert. Newcomers are: junior Heidi Blake and freshmen Dana Howe and Tim Nickerson.

Amy Howe is probably the strongest girls' runner, Applin said, but she's been ill and may not be up to par for a couple of weeks.

For the boys, Billings "did fairly well last year," the coach said, "and seemed to be running strong this year."

Telstar is scheduled to hold its last home meet of the season on Thursday, Sept. 15, at 3:45 p.m.

NOTES FROM Telstar Guidance

High School

The Telstar High School guidance department recently hosted Ms. Marion Klickstein of the Abused Women's Advocacy Project. The purpose of the meeting was to coordinate teachers and advisers of peer helping organizations with AWAP. Sharing information with students about healthy dating relationships is the focus of this year's presentations to students.

Telstar welcomes 10 new students to the school this year -- freshmen: David Fellows entering from Gardiner Middle School, Theresa Gibson, Garrick Leach and Derek Walker formerly of Oxford Hills and Joe and John Tester returning from Salem, N.H.; sophomores: Crystal Jacques and Tatum Rosenberg joining us from Mt. Blue and Buckfield High Schools; seniors: Aaron Janus transferring from Fryeburg Academy and Norway exchange student Helen Ostrem-Nordheim.

The juniors and seniors have a busy two months ahead of them. The College Fair at the University of Southern Maine on Tuesday, Sept. 27; the ASVAB test will be administered on Oct. 15 at Telstar High School; an informational meeting for parents of college-bound juniors and seniors is planned for Thursday, Oct. 27; and a post-secondary planning workshop for juniors and seniors will be held in the morning of Friday, Oct. 28.

Please make sure to mark Thursday, Sept. 22, on your calendar. From 7 to 8:30 p.m. the guidance counselors will be hosting a parents' informational evening for parents of students in grades 9 through 12. The purpose of the meeting will be to meet with administrators, counselors, and faculty members in order to discuss "how's it going" since school started. Guidance services will be explained, and representatives from teams 9, 10, and 11/12 will be on hand to talk about team functions. Please remember, there will be no Open House this year at Telstar High School.

Upcoming dates Telstar parents and students should be aware of:

Sept. 22 -- T.H.S. Parents Night, 7 p.m.; UMPI visitation, 9 a.m.; Army National Guard visitation, 12:45 p.m.

Sept. 23 -- Bradford College visitation, 11:45 a.m.; Johnson & Wales visitation, 1 p.m.

Sept. 27 -- College Fair at USM, 7 p.m.

Sept. 28 -- F.A.C.T. Workshop at Sunday River.

Sept. 29 -- F.A.C.T. Workshop at Sunday River; Sophomore Field Trip to Maine Yankee.

Sept. 30 -- Registration deadline for Nov. 5 College Boards.

Middle School

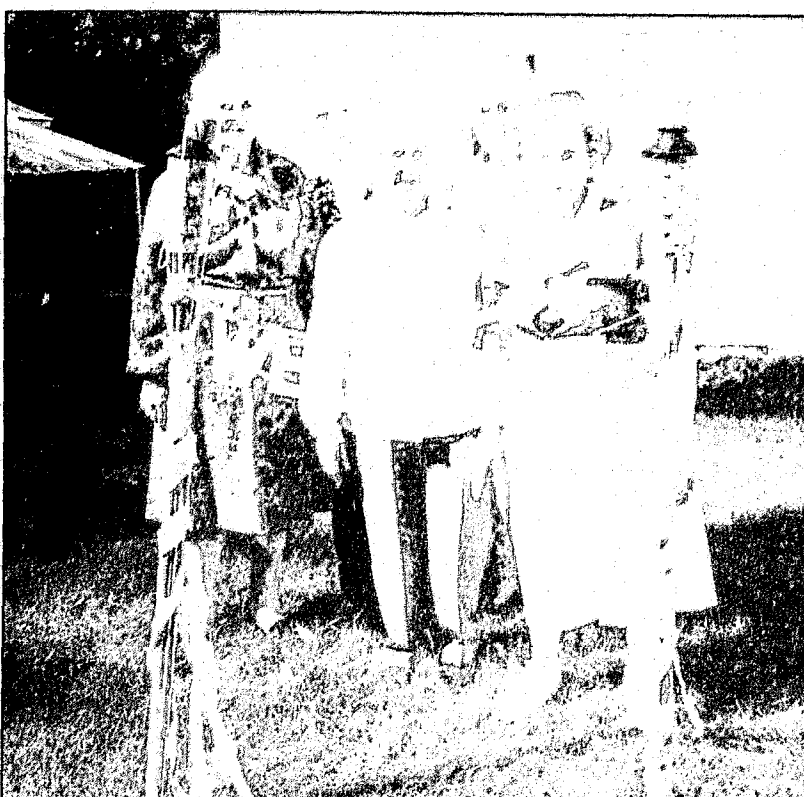

The Middle School guidance area has been very busy this past two weeks. Two new students were registered, initial interviews with incoming sixth- and seventh-graders were started, and plans finalized for eighth-grade NOVA presentations.

Initial interviews are conducted every year by Mrs. Hannon to insure that students are having a smooth transition to the Middle School. The interviews last about 20 minutes for each student as they share with the counselor their thoughts on how they are adapting to the change from a self-contained classroom.

At a recent eighth-grade meeting the team supported the idea of Dan Hart and some of his NOVA students presenting a round robin awareness program to all eighth-graders.

Mrs. Hannon combined with Mrs. Swan for a parent night last Thursday in the Telstar Library. Both presented their curriculums to the interested parents. Those attending had the opportunity to see many of the materials that are currently being used in both of the unified arts areas. Many questions and concerns were addressed, and it was suggested that the guidance curriculum be presented at one of the Friends of Telstar Middle School meetings.

Mrs. Hannon will be presenting the seventh- and eighth-grade guidance curriculum material at open houses scheduled during the next two weeks. The seventh-grade presentation will be on Sept. 20, and the eighth-grade open house on Sept. 28.

GOULD CLASS OF '27 MEETS IN ANDOVER--It's been 67 years since these ladies graduated from Gould Academy in Bethel, but they still enjoy getting together for lunch every year -- they've been doing it for more than 50 years. The luncheon was held last week at the home of Vivian Eagle Barlow of East Andover. Attending were (front row, from left): Barlow, Thelma Rolfe Card of Norway, Evelyn Cole Tamminen of Yarmouth, and (back row) Edna Bean York of Bethel and Viola Everett Lathrop of Poland.

Steel drums bring sound of Caribbean to Bethel

The Atlantic Clarion Steel Band will bring the sounds of the Caribbean to the stage of the Crescent Park School on Friday, Sept. 23, at 7 p.m. The performance is the season opener for the Mahoosuc Arts Council and is sponsored in part by the generous support of the family of Leslie B. Otten and the Maine Arts Commission.

The six-piece group of New England natives has been fascinated by the phenomenon of "pan" for years and now performs for audiences of all ages throughout the Northeast. The Atlantic Clarion Steel Band will transport the audience to the tropics, with a vast repertoire of music from calypso to classical.

Carl Chase, director of the group, creates the instruments in his workshop in Brooksville, using 55-gallon drums and years of experience working with pan makers in Trinidad. Chase is Maine's only pan maker and has encouraged the use of steel drums in music programs throughout Maine and New England.

Trinidad was the birthplace of the steel drum tradition which has developed over the last 50 years and the drums are the staples of the annual carnival celebrations in Trinidad and other Caribbean islands.

Admission is $5 for adults and $3 for students in advance and $7 for adults, $5 for students at the door. Tickets are available at Preb's Pharmacy, Bethel, or by calling the Mahoosuc Arts office at 824-3575 for reservations.

Jackson-Silver Auxiliary

Members find themselves committed to lots of cooking in the weeks ahead. When they met on Sept. 15, plans were finalized for events close at hand and tentative ones made for others a little more distant.

Tuesday, Sept. 27, is the date for the public Harvest Supper at the Locke Mills Legion Hall beginning at 5:30 p.m. This time the Parisians will play during the meal and for dancing afterward. Tickets are $5 for adults and $2.50 for age 12 and under.

Oct. 6 is the date for the annual music program before the regular meeting. This is again being planned by Mary Lyon, who each year for a long time has won the award at Department Convention for her music programs. The department music chairman will be invited, as well as other department officers. The Post members are invited to join the auxiliary for the program and refreshments before the meetings.

A card party each fall has become a custom, the proceeds going for Maine Special Olympics. This year the date is Oct. 9 at 1 o'clock. A donation of $4 to Special Olympics entitles attendees to pie and beverages before beginning to play, an afternoon of fun with friends playing cards or other table games and a chance to win one of the numerous door prizes drawn throughout the afternoon. It is helpful if those intending to come and play would contact Mary Lyon who is heading up this event, or another auxiliary member so that they can better plan on how to set up and how many to expect.

The Boys and Girls State banquet is scheduled this year for Oct. 20, and there are tentative plans for another Musical Supper and Variety Show on Oct. 25. The Unit will also be preparing the banquet when the National Commander visits Maine and will be entertained by the Jackson-Silver Post on Nov. 4.

The Unit has begun to take orders for the Christmas lights to be placed on the spruce trees which honor Fannie Cummings, Vera Cross and the memory of Rena Howe outside the Legion Hall. Bulbs may be purchased for $2 each in honor of, or in memory of, any veteran. This year one tree will also be lit with bulbs in honor or memory of auxiliary members or immediate family members. The trees will be lit on the first Thursday in December and bulbs can be purchased until Christmas Eve. To purchase bulbs or for information, contact Martha Stowell, Evanna Davis or any Jackson-Silver Auxiliary member.

Leah Deegan recently received a letter from the National Auxiliary president congratulating her on being chosen Maine's Unit Member of the Year. Leah and Olive Risko will be attending the annual Fall Conference in Houlton on Sept. 24.

TELSTAR'S HOMECOMING

The 1994 Telstar High School homecoming will be lead off with the boys' soccer team challenging Mt. Abram at 3:30 on Sept. 29.

On Friday the girls' field hockey team will take on Dirigo at 3:30.

The dance will follow the game on Friday night. Everyone is invited to Telstar to join in the excitement, see the decorations, enjoy the food, and perhaps get lucky on a 50/50 drawing at halftime.

BETHEL SENIOR CITIZENS

The Bethel Senior Citizens met Sept. 14, at Locke Mills Town Hall and enjoyed a delicious buffet dinner served by the Firemen's Auxiliary.

Seventy-five members attended the meeting.

Lindley Wieden read an entertaining anecdote about a dog with an unusual name that was particularly appreciated. He also gave details of the Oct. 5 Foliage Trip. The bus will leave at 8 a.m. and expected return is 5 p.m. Stops will be made at Gorham, Franconia Notch and Lincoln, N.H. and return via the Kancamagus Highway and Fryeburg.

Jim Brown gave an interesting presentation of a trip to Niagara Falls, Mackinac Island, Toronto and other points of interest in Canada.

The next meeting will be Oct. 12 at West Bethel Grange Hall where a good old-fashioned New England boiled dinner will be served for $6.

Mt. flying, bombing, barbecue Saturday

Bethel Air Service and the Summit Hotel will sponsor a mountain-flying seminar Saturday at the hotel. The free workshop from noon until 2 p.m. is for anyone interested in mountain-flying techniques. It is being conducted by the Federal Aviation Administration, New England Flight Service Station, the Mt. Washington Observatory and Bethel Air Service.

Following the seminar, at 2:30 p.m. there will be a barbecue and aviation contests at the Bethel airport. Weather permitting, pilots will participate in a spot landing contest. Aerial target practice will also be held. Pilots will drop water balloons at targets on the runway.

The seminar is free, donations will be accepted for the barbecue and observers are welcome at the field for the flying contests.

Task Force notes

By NATALIE TIMBERLAKE

What makes a good meeting place, and what make adequate recreational facilities?

These were questions as the Bethel Area Task Force met Sept. 4 and reflected on the 1994 (NTL) National Training Laboratories' season in Bethel with local NTL manager Kathi Schandemeier. The meeting also discussed publicly accessible recreational opportunities with Bethel town manager Madeleine Henley.

Schandemeier said that the NTL season, which began on June 6 and concluded with the NTL Board meetings the weekend of Sept. 10, was good; but a major hurdle to increasing the number of labs which can be offered in any one week is to locate more "good meeting places."

The overall enrollment for the season was comparable to the last season prior to the NTL board anticipating closing down the Bethel programs (1991). However, the number of delegates during any one week has been affected by the scarcity of places for additional labs to meet.

One of the outstanding reasons for NTL planning to discontinue its Bethel connection was the dissatisfaction with lab spaces after Gould Academy established a summer school. Previously, the academy campus and facilities had been home to NTL since it inaugurated its 1947 season.

Schandemeier noted that labs were held this year at the Gehring House (NTL Conference Center); at the Conference Center and The Elms of Bethel Inn where there was strong interest in addressing needs. Three labs were held at the Summit Hotel.

Possibilities for the future might include some arrangements with Crescent Park School, renovation of the NTL Clusters; and eventually with the Cross Street project. An earlier Task Force committee surveyed in-town meeting halls and forwarded that report to NTL. Generally, a lab should have a comfortably ventilated main space which can accommodate up to 30 persons, and availability of adjacent "break-out" rooms for halving the group.

In their end-of-lab evaluations, conferees expressed desire to be in the Bethel community to share all of the aspects of NTL, such as common dining facility and Sunrise Seminars.

Through the efforts of the Task Force to focus local interest and assure the awareness of veterans NTL participants on the anticipated move, NTL has remained here for summer sessions, and has made significant efforts to develop its Bethel real estate.

The rebuilding process saw an earlier drop in enrollment and decrease in the number of labs offered here. By extending the season and offering fewer labs per week because of facilities crunch, local innkeepers and other businesses would notice less NTL impact.

With the annual meeting this month, the board will be seeing transition with several members going off the board, and some longtime Bethel supporters in the coming year. Also, at this time two local residents will be accepted as members of the NTL organization: Patricia Williams of Woodstock, and John Shorb of Bethel.

Schandemeier reported also that she will be meeting with board members in Alexandria, Va., in October to revisit and discuss the rebuilding process.

Also, at this time, two local residents will be accepted as members of the NTL organization: Patricia Williams of Woodstock, and John Shorb of Bethel.

Schandelmeyer reported also that she will be meeting with board members in Alexandria, Va., in October to revisit and discuss the

"Bethel Strategic Plan."

Henley was invited to give the Task Force an overview of the work of the town recreation committee after Don Coverdale, of NTL and Task Force as well as Vernon Street home owner, had brought attention to the expressed recreational interests of NTL personnel.

Henley explained that the town has a recreational budget of $6500, which a volunteer committee, headed presently by Alberta Merrill, parlayed into summer and winter activities each year. The summer swim program is the most expensive one, as certified personnel are required. This program is continued through the generosity of the owner of the beach front property at Songo Pond who donates the use of the waterfront for the month of July. There are softball teams, the Bambino League (baseball), and T-Ball program. A tennis program was started a few years ago, and a canoeing instruction project was held this year. Such added programs depend on initiative of suitable leaders, and availability of either small participant fees and/or some otherwise unused funds.

She explained that the real work of running these programs is entirely by non-paid volunteers. She cited such unsung heroes as the committee members who keep the skating rink in condition, the citizen who hauled away some of last winter's excessive snow, those who put in and take out the dock and float at Songo, or coach and transport ball team members.

Further, she noted that the Bethel Common where the skating rink has been located for several winters; Kimball Park on Park Street; and Davis Park are the only town-owned recreational properties. Davis Park has been equipped with a small playground area especially suited to small children by a corps of parents who raised money and recruited workers, under leadership of Marie Corbin Keane. A popular canoe access at Davis Park has been supported by Friends of the Andros-coggin.

The eventual development of the pathway at the Cross Street project may add somewhat to walking, jogging, cross-country skiing, etc. Whether this, and/or the Davis Park area could be available for skateboard or roller-blade activity was unknown.

Henley commended the recreation committee on what it manages to achieve, noting that it is "not so much pro-active as struggling to maintain" the progress which has been made. In final remarks she noted that Bethel seems to be able to make things happen if a need is identified, enough people seem affected by it, and there are supporters willing to organize and to work to make it happen.

Announcement was made that a second Reader Roundtable will start the week of Oct. 2; further information is available by calling 1-800-499-0043.

The next Task Force meeting: Sunday, Oct. 23, at 7 p.m. at the home of co-leader, the Rev. Gwyneth Bohr.

B.P. UNIVERSALIST CHURCH PROJECT IS COMPLETE

The Universalist Church of Bryant Pond, the oldest church in the town of Woodstock, recently completed its renovations and church services resumed on Sept. 11.

White vinyl siding was put on the exterior walls, with white metal on the trimmings. The clear white metal was bent and molded to the fancy exterior edges around the windows, doors and corners. Whitehouse Home Improvement Company of Auburn and Lewiston contracted the work. Whitehouse was the only contractor found which was willing to work on the church steeple. It's 68 feet to the belfry, and the two men who did the work at that height spent a week on that section of the building.

The project was a continuation of a revitalization program started in 1992 when Wendell Sweetser painted the inside with fresh paint and then new carpeting was installed on the floor.

The officers who have served the church for the past three years are: Evelyn T. Bean, moderator; Juanita Allen, clerk; Annie T. Crockett, treasurer; Kathleen McAllister, financial secretary; Noreen Russo, greeter; Eloise Howe, treasurer of the Ladies Circle.

Ministers serving the church include: the Rev. Earle McKinney of Gray; the Rev. Herbert Weeks of Auburn; and the Rev. Albert Niles of North Sebago.

The Rev. Earle McKinney and the Rev. Albert Niles will be the guest ministers for the fall months. Mrs. Olga Gellatly be organist.
